GLAZEBROOK

TAKE YOUR HUNTING
EXPERIENCE TO ANOTHER

GLAZEBROOK

Not for the faint hearted, Glazebrook is a vast private estate of rugged natural beauty that will at once challenge and inspire. Nothing can prepare you for the Glazebrook hunting experience - rugged and unspoilt, this isolated high country station will simply take your breath away. This is simply a hunter's paradise.

You'll hunt in an awe-inspiring wilderness that time has forgotten and man has not fully explored.

A multitude of game abounds on the property. Spot animals from afar before stalking in close to the trophy of your choice. You'll need to be fit to track a roaring red stag or fallow buck on the steep slopes. And you'll need the utmost patience to spot the wary chamois in the rocky basins beneath the snow-clad mountain peaks.

Hunting at Glazebrook is an experience you'll never forget. And for those in search of the ultimate trophy, our game estate offers over 3,000 acres of extreme hunting, including red stag, elk and fallow buck.

At the end of a hard days hunting relax in our new lodge nestled into a steep slope high above the headwaters of the Waiopahi River, and enjoy gourmet meals and fine wine. Try your hand at any of the outdoor activities on offer: fly-fishing, field archery and target shooting, or simply absorb the deafening sounds of utter silence.

Step back in time and enjoy hunting the way it used to be.

Another piece of Poronui Hunting magic.

Glazebrook is home to the headwaters of the Waiopahi River, that flows past the Spy Valley satellite-monitoring facility, and into the Marlborough district, nourishing some of the finest sauvignon blanc vines found anywhere in the world.

GLAZEBROOK

Red Stag | Highland red deer were originally introduced to New Zealand from English parks and the wild herds of Scotland. Each year from March - July we take magnificent trophies, some in excess of 400 SCI. The free-range red stags at Glazebrook are representative of their breed, and some excellent trophies can be taken.

Fallow Buck | Originally introduced from Europe in 1864 to the neighbouring Nelson area, the Glazebrook fallow herd yields some exceptional bucks. An abundance of fallow roam our high country hills and valleys. Hunt the cunning bucks during the croak of late April or take a meat animal at any time of the year.

Chamois | At home in the higher mountain systems of Europe, chamois are carefully protected. You need to be agile and fit to hunt this stunningly beautiful creature, a challenging trophy that is right at home on the steep slopes of Glazebrook Station.

Arapawa Ram | The eccentric spiralling horns of the wild Arapawa ram make a striking trophy. These wild sheep are descended from a flock of predominantly merino descent, that escaped from early settlers on Arapawa Island in 1867, and are a worthwhile addition to any hunt.

Other Game | Glazebrook hosts an abundance of wild boar, goats, hares and game birds; while brown trout are regularly taken from the gin-clear Waiopahi River.

The dreaded rubber-piercing Speargrass or Golden Spaniard plant has excessive spininess - a defence against browsing animals, which in pre-human New Zealand would have been the moa - but now includes deer, chamois, Arapawa sheep and wild goats.
